OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY.

No flag but the Old Flag—the Red, White and Blue.
With the stars of a Union unbroken and true!
Arise and defend it! ye sons of the brave,
Whose blood bought the banner your valor must save.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, APRIL 9, 1862.

Multnomah County Union Convention.

The freemen of Multnomah County who are willing to throw aside all previous political prejudices and party platforms, and sustain the Administration in suppressing armed rebellion, blotting out treason and preserving unimpaired the priceless inheritance of constitutional liberty, are hereby requested to meet in their several precincts at the usual place of voting, on Saturday the 19th inst., at one o'clock P. M., and elect Delegates to attend a Union County Convention to be holden at the Court-house in Portland on Saturday the 26th inst., at one o'clock P. M., to put in nomination a ticket for County officers to be voted for at the coming election, composed of men whose political creed is Union first, Union last, and Union forever.

The precincts are entitled, on the basis of the popular vote, to the following number of Delegates: North Portland, 19; South Portland, 21; St. John's, 4; Powell's Valley, 3; Multnomah, 2; Sandy, 2; Willamette, 2; Sauvie's Island, 2.

Per order of Committee. A. DUFUR, Ch'n.
Portland, April 5th, 1862.

The Policy of the Secessionists in the North.

They want the Government to be forced into a compromise with Southern rebels, so that by a union of Northern sympathizers and Southern rebels, they can control the Government of the Nation and secure its offices. For this purpose they were anxious for a compromise with the South even in the early days of the rebellion. Their Southern friends would not gratify them, believing that they were able to make the Southern rebellion successful. The sympathizers of the North had then no means left to accomplish their ends, but by embarrassing the Government—assisting the rebels all in their power—if, peradventure disasters might befall our arms, and by these means our Government be compelled to compromise with rebels in arms. Let the honest patriot examine all the past secession prints and he will find their efforts culminating to that point—the breaking down and humbling of our Government and forcing it into a compromise; by which means they could secure success to their unholy aspirations. They want a compromise that will bring to power those who have disgraced and despoiled the Republic.—they desire to inaugurate a system which shall place the Government in the hands of the slaveholders of the South and the sympathizers in secession in the Free States.

They will not succeed. The government will be sustained by the loyal people of the States in crushing out this rebellion; and in establishing the principles, that States and communities of this Republic will not find in a failure to carry the elections in a way to suit their ambition, a justification for secession and rebellion.

We think the Advertiser is wrong when it says that Secretary Seward approved and endorsed the act of Wilkes in seizing Slidell and Mason. Unquestionably the seizure was in accordance with antecedents furnished by the English Government; but it was a violation of the doctrines for which the United States had long contended and for the support of which, she made war on England in 1812. This was exactly the position of the case. England chose to endorse our doctrine on the rights of neutrals, and it was a matter of policy on our part not to depart from them. We gloried in the spunk of Wilkes, however mistaken and wrong under the rules we had prescribed for ourselves. The Advertiser approved of the giving up of Slidell and Mason upon the principle that a neutral flag should have protected them from seizure.

CONGRESS.—In the House, Dunn offered a resolution, which was adopted, instructing the Ways and Means Committee to inquire into the expediency of organizing a large force of miners, with the necessary machinery, to proceed to the gold mines of the West, and work the same for the benefit of the Government, as a means of defraying the expenses of the war.

There are thousands of citizens in the East who would be glad to engage in such service, to enable them to reach the Pacific coast. We believe the project, however, to be impracticable. Digging for gold, and washing dirt, can better be done by individuals and small companies, than by large associations. Quartz mining requires capital and can be best done by wealthy companies.

Capt. M. Crawford, of the Overland escort, was at San Francisco on the 29th ult., and expected to leave in the Golden Gate for Panama on the 1st instant. He writes us: "Almost every one in San Francisco I have seen is going to Salmon river."

Prentis says that soon after Bishop Polk went into the army he had learned to swear as the wildest trooper. Some think he accepted a commission just for the pleasure of swearing. No doubt he has lately enjoyed the new found privileges to his heart's content.

Politics in Wasco County.

DALLES CITY, April 7th, 1862.

EDITOR OREGONIAN—SIR:—The Delegates of the Patent Democracy of this county, met in Convention at the Court House on the 5th inst. N. H. Gates, Esq., was called to the Chair, and A. P. Dennison elected Secretary.

C. R. Rockle, A. P. Dennison, Newel, of the Mountaineer, and R. E. Miller, were elected Delegates to the State Convention.

The County nominations were for Representative—N. H. Gates; County Clerk—Stephen Hodgdon; Sheriff—R. E. Miller; Treasurer—P. Craig; County Judge—Nathan Olney; County Commissioners—G. F. Berler, and Stephen Marshall; Assessor—M. M. Cushing; Supt. Common Schools—H. P. Isaacs; Prosecuting Attorney—C. R. Meigs; Coroner—Doctor Hunter.

The nomination of Olney for County Judge, and Meigs for Prosecuting Attorney, were made at the instance of Newel. One reason for which, doubtless was, that they had no available men for those offices in their own ranks; and another, probably was, that these gentlemen received at the hands of the Union Convention the next highest vote to the successful nominees for the same offices respectively. The democratic leaders, therefore, by pretended sympathy, and by giving them these nominations, had hopes of buying them over to their purposes, and thereby causing some confusion and dissatisfaction in the ranks of the Unionists. But at the evening session of the convention, C. R. Meigs sent in a note declining all such proffered honors; and Olney has doubtless, too much patriotism and good sense to be served in the least by such hollow sympathy from the support of the Union party.

After having concluded their nominations, the Convention appointed Gates, Dennison and Newel, a committee to draft resolutions, and adjourned to 7 o'clock in the evening. At 7 o'clock, Messrs. Gates, Dennison and Newel assembled, and after waiting in the rain for some time for a quorum of the Delegates, proceeded to business without a quorum. One of the Delegates very aptly and truthfully remarked, that if their adherents were as backward about coming to the polls in June, as they were about attending the Convention, they had but a poor chance of success. The chiefs seemed to be greatly depressed at the extremely thin attendance, and proceeded to business with lengthened visages and sad and hollow voices, much as if they were conducting the funeral services of their departed gods. The occasional rapid thumps of two very nimble-footed gentlemen, who seemed to have a greater amount of spirits than the others, were the only sounds that disturbed the solemnity of the occasion. After having read a set of resolutions, Mr. Newel proceeded to make a speech, the only remarkable thing about which was a gross misstatement in regard to the financial affairs of this county, which I shall here take occasion to correct, viz: That this county in regard to its proportion of the State tax, occupies the position of repudiation. Now let us see how much truth and how much misrepresentation there is in this distorted statement. This county's proportion of the State tax for this present year, amounts to $1874 68. There has been collected and paid into the State Treasury the sum of $1639 00, leaving a balance yet unpaid of $237 68. Now the reasons why this $237 68 has not been paid over are as well known to Mr. Newel as to any one else. The reasons are not as Mr. Newel undertook, on Saturday evening, to make some portion of the seventeen persons, who heard him, believe that the money had been collected and squandered; but that owing to the great extent of the county, the floods of December, which swept away the bridges and ferries, the prevalence of deep snow and severe frost through the winter, and of snow, mud, and high waters during the early spring, has rendered it impossible to collect the taxes from the remoter portions of the county. Our Sheriff is at present diligently employed in making collections, and the balance of the taxes will most likely be soon collected and the State proportion paid over; every dime without a doubt. So much for Newel's effort to fasten repudiation upon, and depreciate the financial condition of this county.

Yours respectfully,
ON THE SQUARE.

Jeff. Davis' message to his Congress at Richmond was a very cool affair. He says that the Confederate States had "misplaced confidence in former associates"—that is, they expected assistance from the north; he acknowledged disasters; says there are no workshops and artists except in the north; that the reports of confederate losses are exaggerated; that their cause has failed abroad; that the soldiers are going to their homes to re-enlist; that he is opposed to short enlistments; that the confederates have a number of vessels of war on the stocks; that the expense of the year has been 190 millions; that the post-office department is improving, and that a supreme court should be organized.

Mr. J. S. White, of the Umatilla Agency, arrived in this city on Saturday last. From what he has seen of the Powder river gold, and heard from persons who operated there last winter, he is opinion that good diggings exist in the valley of that river. Persons from thence say that these diggings will yield $20 per day to the hand, and the opinion is that they will prove to be extensive.

Powder river valley is supposed to be well adapted to agriculture; is a healthy location, and some twenty miners have worked there all winter. These advantages will not be realized in the Salmon river diggings.

We understand that many parties are proceeding from the Dalles to Powder river.

A soldier writes from Fort Donelson:—Soon after the capture, we heard one Tennessee Colonel (Abernathy) declaring that if we hung Buckner it would be the cause of everlasting hatred by the South. Upon being further interrogated, it appeared that he was under the impression, as were his men, that they would be hung if taken. He was assured that they would be well treated, but was told that Col. Corcoran could not make the same answer for his captors.

Allen Francis, Esq., American Consul for Victoria, arrived here and left in the Brother Jonathan, with his family, for that place.

Late Eastern News.

The Louisville Journal says:—"Some of the bitter rebels of Memphis kindly sent us word two or three months ago, that if we would come down there they would take pleasure in giving us an entertainment. We are now prepared to say to the gentlemen that we will come, and that, too, at a pretty early day, but we are seriously afraid we shall not find them at home."

Lieut. Phelps, who commanded the gunboat expedition to Florence, Alabama, writes:—"Men, women and children several times gathered in crowds of hundreds, shouted our welcome, and hailed the flag with an enthusiasm there was no mistaking; it was genuine and heartfelt. These people brought everything to go to the river banks, where a sight of their flag might once more be enjoyed, and they have experienced, as they related, every possible form of persecution. Tears flowed freely down the cheeks of men as well as of women, and there were those who had fought under the stars and stripes at Moultrie, who in this manner testified to their joy."

A letter from Richmond says:—"From every part of Virginia petitions are pouring into the General Assembly, for stopping the further distillation of grain into whiskey.—Within six months, at least, two hundred additional distilleries have sprung up in the State. They are gradually absorbing all the corn, as their profits are so enormous that they can afford to pay the highest price for it."

The ship Moonlight, from Hong Kong, arrived at San Francisco, brings information of the capture of the great city of Hang Chow, by the insurgents. They reveled in the wanton destruction of human life. They put all the Mandarin soldiery, numbering 50,000, to the sword.

The N. Y. Tribune says:—"We trust the people are already ripe for a proposition that we feel compelled to urge upon their attention—namely, that no man should be elected to Congress who ever made a speech more than fifteen minutes long."

Another correspondent from Fort Donelson writes:—Within the fort a small Secession flag was planted and twice the pole supporting it was shot away. Some one picked it up and said: "That is a bad omen; if it is brought down again we will be defeated."—Hardly had he spoken before a shell burst above his head, and a fragment shivered the staff, and crushed through the speaker's skull.

How to go to the Mines.—Miners who now purpose going to Salmon River, Rhodes Creek, and the other mining regions, should not start out unprepared to travel through a wild and starving country. For it is known to all who have come from above the Cascades, that the country is now bare of all kinds of provisions, by its supplies having been cut off by the long stoppage of navigation. Therefore we would enjoin all who wish to go through comfortably, and return with their pockets full of "Rocks," to call at HARKER BROTHERS, opposite the Upper Wharf, and supply themselves with Flour, Bacon, Beans, Groceries, Blankets, Clothing, Rubber and Nailed Boots, and all other articles necessary for mining purposes, before they embark for the land of nuggets.

School Superintendent's Notice.—Notice is hereby given to all persons who wish to teach the common schools of this County for the ensuing year that an examination of Teachers will be held at the Public School-house in Portland, on Saturday the 12th day of April inst., at nine o'clock A. M. A punctual and a general attendance is requested.

A CARD.

I would say to [illegible] Willamette Valley, and to all who are afflicted with diseases of [illegible] tubes and lungs, that Dr. J. Flattery will be in Portland about April 5th and will be prepared [illegible] those who are thus afflicted. Dr. Flattery's system of inhalation has accomplished wonders. [illegible] to many in Portland and the adjacent country [illegible] I left Oregon in the Fall of [illegible] not live long. Through this system [illegible] prescribed by Dr. Flattery, I have [illegible] able for many months [illegible] with energy and satisfaction. I could also tell [illegible] here and in the Sacramento Valley who were [illegible] who have by Dr. F.'s [illegible] been restored to their friends and to the enjoyment of health. I say to the afflicted, try this new system and live.

H. S. Pike.

N. B.—The above card was not asked for by Dr. Flattery, nor does he know that it is written. It is prompted by gratitude and a regard for the afflicted.

Agency Notice.—Mr. L. P. FISHER is our only authorized Agent in San Francisco to receive advertisements, and transact business for the Daily and Weekly Oregonian. Office—No. 17½ Washington street, nearly opposite Maguire's Opera House.

☞ Coughs.—The sudden changes of our climate are sources of Pulmonary, Bronchial and Asthmatic Affections. Experience having proved that simple remedies often act speedily and certainly when taken in the early stages of the disease, recourse should at once be had to "Brown's Bronchial Troches," or Lozenges, let the Cold, Cough, or Irritation of the Throat be ever so slight, as by this precaution a more serious attack may be effectually warded off. Public Speakers and Singers will find them effectual for clearing and strengthening the voice. See advertisement.

☞ The Medical and Surgical Institute of DR. L. J. CZAPKAY is already [illegible] in a position which places it, as well as its proprietor, far above the assaults of envy and professional malice. [illegible] In the schools of France the highest prizes are often awarded to practitioners in this department of medical science, and they occupy with others an equally lofty position in the profession. [illegible] is an illustrious example, shining bright among the philosophical stars of his age in Europe, and Dr. Czapkay has fully equalled him in this country, as a proof of which the Philadelphia College of Medicine complimented him with a Diploma and the honorary ad eundem degree. Selecting this as his field of operation, although qualified as a graduate of the University of Pesth and late Chief Surgeon of the Hungarian Revolutionary army, for [illegible] labors, Dr. L. J. Czapkay has bent his earnest attention to the cure of chronic and private diseases, in which he has become so great an expert that he is now regarded as the [illegible] in this branch of his profession throughout the United States, and his portrait and biography are published as matter of interest to their readers in the most [illegible] journals. The Doctor's offices are at his Medical and Surgical Institute, on Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, nearly opposite the buildings of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, San Francisco. We ask particular attention of our readers to the sworn certificates of remarkable cures in another column of this paper. Persons not wishing to lose time in corresponding, please enclose $10 in their letters, and they will get immediate attention to their cases. Address, L. J. CZAPKAY, M.D., San Francisco, Cal. Seventy Miles an Hour.

(Concluded.)

I sprang up into the foot-board, got up the switch-tender to help my fireman, opened the throttle, and just as she commenced moving, I looked at my watch. It was just eleven o'clock so that I had one hour to make my seventy-five miles in. From Y to C there were few curves in the road, but there were several heavy grades. I was perfectly acquainted with every rod of it, so that I knew exactly what I had to encounter; and when I saw how the engine was moving, I had very little fear of the result. The road for the first few miles was an air line, and so smooth that my engine flew along with scarcely a perceptible jar. I was so busy posting myself up as to the amount of wood and water aboard, etc., that we danced by the first station almost before I was aware of it, having five miles accomplished.

"You are losing time!" yelled a voice from the coach. I looked around and there stood Roberts, with his watch in his hand.

I knew very well that we should have to increase our speed by some means, if we carried out our plans of reaching C by midnight, and looked axiously around to see what I could do to accomplish the purpose. She was blowing off steam fiercely at one hundred and ten pounds, so I turned down the valve to two hundred, for I knew she needed it all to make some of the heavy grades which lay between us and C. It was three miles to the next station. With the exception of a few curves, the track was as good as the last. As we darted around what commonly seemed to be rather a long curve at the station, but which was, at our high speed, short enough, I looked at my watch, and we had done it in two minutes and a half.

"Gaining!" I shouted back to Roberts, who was standing outside, on the platform of the coach.

"Look out for the heavy grades," he replied, and went inside the car.

The next six miles rose gradually from a level the first to ten and a half feet grade, the last which lay between us and the next station. My fireman kept her full; and now she begun to get hot. The furnace door was red, and the steam raised continually; so that she kept her speed, and passed the station like a streak of lightning, in five minutes. Now came nine miles like the last, over which she kept pace with her time, and passed the station in seven minutes.

Here, for ten miles, we had a twenty-foot grade to encounter; but the worst of it all was, at this place we would be obliged to stop for wood. I was just going to speak to Roberts about it, when I looked around and saw him filling the tender from the coach with wood, which had been placed there before starting, while he was gone after me. I believe he would have made his ten miles at same speed as before, but through the carelessness of the fireman, the fountain valve on the left-hand side of the engine got open, and the water rose in the boiler so as to run the steam down to one hundred pounds before I knew where the difficulty lay. At first Roberts didn't appear to notice the decrease speed, and kept at work at the wood as if for dear life. But presently he looked up, and seeing the speed had decreased, he shouted:

"Harry, we are stopping!" And then coming over to where I was, he said: "Why, here we have been ten minutes on the first ten miles, and I believe we will come to a dead stand, if something is not done. The speed is continually slackening. What's the matter?"

I explained the cause. He was apparently satisfied with my explanation, and after having tied down the safety valve, he climbed over the tender exhorting me to put him through, for God's sake, or we are beggars together! Just then we passed the next station, having taken nine minutes for eight miles. We were now more than half over the road, and we had only twenty-seven minutes to do thirty-four miles in.

I had shut the water off both my pumps, a little back, when I discovered what was the matter, and she was now making steam down a slight grade. From less than one hundred, with which we started over that ten mile stretch, she had two hundred before we had finished it; and as the gauge indicated no higher than that and the valve was tied down, I could not tell how much over two hundred pounds she carried; but certainly carried no less the rest of the journey. And well might she carry such an enormous head of steam; for after passing over that ten miles in eight minutes, there lay ten miles of five feet up grade, and fourteen miles of twenty to the mile depression between us and C, and it was now eleven o'clock and forty-seven minutes. Now the engine was hot in earnest. The furnace door, smoke arch and chimney all were red;—while she seemed to fly onward as if the very evil one himself operated her machinery.

Six minutes carried us over the ten miles, and we darted by the last station that had lain between us and C. Now we had fourteen miles to go, and my time showed fifty-three minutes past eleven.

"If I live," said I to myself, "I will make it," and we plunged down the twenty feet grade with all steam on. Persons who saw the train on that wild run say that it was so soon after they heard the first sound of her approach, when the strange object, which looked as if it was a flame of fire, darted by, and that the sound of its traveling died away in the distance, that they could hardly convince themselves that they had seen anything. It seemed more like a creature of a wild dream than a sober reality.

And now let me tell you that no engineer ever beat the time that we made on those fourteen miles. Those great wheels, eleven feet in diameter, spun around so swiftly that you could not begin to count the revolutions. The engine barely seemed to touch the ground as she flew along, and although the track was as true as it could be, she swayed fearfully, and sometimes made such prodigious jolts that it required some skill for one to keep his feet. No engine would ever hold together if crowded to any greater speed.

Well, just as I came to a stand at the depot in C, the big clock boomed out twelve, and the steamboat was getting her steam on. Roberts got board in time, and nothing to spare.

"And he saved the money, did he?" I asked when I saw that my friend had finished his narrative.

"Yes; he found it hid away in some old boxes, as Aldrich had directed."

"If you are a passenger for G," said a waiter, "the 'bus' is ready."

So I thanked my friend for his story and bade him good bye.
